WESNET works to minimise the harm to women and their children from domestic and family violence by advancing responses that:

- Ensure the safety of women and children;
- Empower them to live free of violence; and
- Improve the social, political and economic status of women.

Site/Program Profile

The Safety Net Australia project was established in 2011 by WESNET. Objectives of the project include working with communities and agencies to address how ongoing and emerging technology issues impact the safety, privacy and accessibility rights of victims of domestic and family violence, sexual violence and stalking; and to train agencies who work with women experiencing all forms of violence in ways to use technology strategically to help find safety, access support and services and gather evidence against their abusers.

The Program has Commonwealth Government funding under the $100m Women's Safety Package to deliver the Safe Technology for Women project until 31 December 2018 and is also working in partnership with Telstra to expand the Safe Connections program, which provides new smartphones to women experiencing violence, particularly those who are experiencing technology facilitated abuse. As part of these initiatives WESNET will provide training to frontline agencies about the safe distribution of the smartphones, common ways that smartphones are misused and ways to collect evidence.
